2 Turkey and an Army Forward

Lieutenant Colonel Patrick Warren, U.S. Army Europe, and Major Michael Morrissey, U.S. Army Europe

As part of a joint force positioned in central Europe, forward-deployed U.S. Army forces are needed to provide a responsive, flexible deterrent. USAREUR meets the criteria.

11 Operation Airborne Dragon, Northern Iraq

Lieutenant Colonel Patrick Warren, U.S. Army Europe, and Major Keith Barclay, U.S. Army Europe

On 7 April 2003, Task Force 1-63 landed M1A1 tanks, Bradley Fighting Vehicles, and a battalion command post with satellite communications at Bashur Airfield in northern Iraq. Much of the Iraqi military capitulated 3 days later.

15 Transforming USAREUR for a Strategy of Preemption

Brian J. Dunn, Research Analyst, Michigan Legislative Service Bureau, Lansing

U.S. Army Europe is not optimally configured to conduct rapid decisive operations to support the U.S. strategy of preemption. The Army needs lighter, more strategically mobile troops in Europe. Dunn proposes a new array of forces for USAREUR that would include the XVII Airborne Corps.

21 Insurgent Groups in Chechnya

Colonel Sergey A. Kulikov, Russia Federation, and Robert R. Love, Translator

Kulikov, a former Russian Special Forces commander, describes the audacity of Chechen insurgents engaging in raids, ambushes, hostage taking, and terrorism in the Russian Federation. By studying insurgents' ploys, a counterinsurgency force can learn how to protect itself while taking the battle to the enemy.

31 Kosovo: Present and Future

Sarah E. Archer, RN, DrPH

A more democratic civil society is evolving in Kosovo even as it struggles with its socialist past. Major problems to overcome include the economy, privatization of industries, relations among Kosovar Albanians and minority groups, and health care. Over all hangs the continuing uncertainty of whether it will become an independent nation or remain a province of Serbia.

41 Ten Ways Great Leaders Lead

Lieutenant Colonel Christopher D. Kolenda, U.S. Army

Drawing on 19 years of service to the Nation, Kolenda sets forth 10 principles for excellence in leadership. Ranging from the practical to the profound, the principles will help all leaders leave a legacy of excellence in the hearts and minds of soldiers.

50 Air-Ground Cooperation Perspectives

Phillip S. Meilinger, Ph.D., McLean, Virginia

Air-ground cooperation, the interaction of air and ground forces to ensure the synchronization, coordination, and integration of air operations with the joint commander's campaign plan, has been a persistent concern among the services, which need to identify the sources of trouble and highlight instances where coordination has improved joint operations.

59 The Army Vision: The 4th AD in World War II

Robert S. Cameron, Ph.D., Fort Knox, Kentucky

The U.S. Army's 4th Armored Division had remarkable success during World War II. Cameron concludes that the Division embodied many of the qualities the Army is hoping to instill through Transformation, as Army Chief of Staff General Eric K. Shinseki outlined in 1999.

General Eric K. Shinseki, former Army Chief of Staff

69 America's Army: Expeditionary and Enduring—Foreign and Domestic

Lieutenant General Frederic J. Brown, U.S. Army, Retired

While the Army continues Transformation, it must still defend against foreign threats. Doing so calls for new combinations of quick, expeditionary and enduring response.

Review Essays

78 Another Such Victory

Major Michael E. Long, U.S. Army Reserve, Retired, New Port Richey, Florida

While President Harry S. Truman has often been touted as someone to emulate, Arnold A. Offner sees Truman's downside, including the fact that his sheltered vice presidency handicapped him in assuming the role of President.

79 The Wound and the Dream

Major Jeffrey C. Alfier, U.S. Air Force, Retired, Ramstein, Germany

The Wound and the Dream is a meticulous, compelling anthology of poetry that underscores the fascination that the antifascist cause of the Spanish Civil war has long held for American poets.
